G. A. CAMERA CLUB IS HOLDING ANNUAL EXHIBIT

In Room 106 in Hancock Hall at Goold, from Memorial Day, May 20, through Sunday, June 5, the Camera Club is holding its seventh annual exhibit of its members' work throughout the last school year. In addition to the Hancock Hall show, many more pictures, as well as the darkroom where the club's activities are carried on, the boys dormitory, will be open to the public during the same period of time.

Together with its usual outstanding display of students' salon pictures, and many montages of pictures showing every activity of the school as recorded by the club members throughout the year, this year the club director Mr. G. A. Foster, has introduced a novelty which his proteges have been quick to take up: the making of "Photograms." In the process of which various objects are laid directly on the photographic paper—objects which may be cut-out silhouettes or the like—and left for ten seconds; when removed, interesting white-on-black, impressionistic effect is the result. A number of these on display add novelty to the show.

Campus life in many every-day phases, and the original montages used in this year's Academy Herald, are shown and pre-viewed of the entire show once again that the Goold Camera Club's work deserves the high rating which has been accorded it in the past. A cordial invitation to every Bethel citizen is extended to attend the show.

KITCHEN SHOWER TENDERED MISS BEATRICE MERRILL

A kitchen shower was held at the Bear River Grange Hall on Wednesday evening, May 27, for Miss Beatrice Merrill in honor of her approaching marriage. She received many nice gifts. Refreshments were served later in the evening and a very nice time was enjoyed by all.

HIGH COMPLIMENTS GIVEN MINSTREL SHOW CAST

The presentation of "Old Time Minstrels" under the auspices of the Eleanor Gordon Guild, at the William Bingham Gymnasium last Thursday and Friday evenings brought forth enthusiastic praise from Bethel folk who appreciate a good minstrel show. The event again demonstrated the versatility of local talent and the ability of home town coaches to develop good entertainment.

The new names, as printed in last week's Citizen, were worthy additions to the group of our old time stars. To enumerate the popular numbers would include the entire program as previously published.

Special credit however should be given to Win Howe whose originality and energetic direction, the result of many similar projects in past years, moulded the evening's entertainment into a fast-moving two hours without a lagging moment; Phyllis Dock, whose faithful attendance at rehearsals as accompanist was of prime importance to the unity and smoothness of the production; Evelyn Roberts, Guild president, who was untiring in her efforts during the preparation and production of the show.

The cast will go to Errol in three weeks, where interest in the coming attraction is already aroused, and a large attendance is assured at the K. of P. hall.

GOULD TAKES PLAY-OFF TILT FROM WEST PARIS, 11-4

With an eight run rally to come from behind in the ninth inning Goold defeated a fine West Paris team, 11 to 4, to enter the second round of the State Tourney. It was a pitchers battle all the way to the ninth inning with West Paris leading 4-3, but then the fireworks started. Five hits, two stolen bases, a balk, and five West Paris errors paved the way for an eight run first of the ninth by Goold.

Rolfe pitched fine ball as he allowed only six hits and struck out 11. L. Bennett with four hits, Dave Durgin and Dick Rolfe with three hits were the offensive stars.

Doughty pitched good ball to the ninth for the losers and lost a heartbreaking game when everything happened in the final frame. Leon Hadley had two for three as he was a hard man to keep off the basepaths.

Goold will face a team from the Cumberland County area on Friday in the second tourney.

C. OF C. SEEKS INFORMATION ON TOURIST QUARTERS

The secretary of the Bethel Chamber of Commerce receives many inquiries from those who seek accommodations in homes, camps and hotels while in this area. Fishing, mountain climbing, sight-seeing, or rest may be desired. Is Bigness Bad?

Many critics of our American system use big business as a special target for their attacks. According to their charges, big business throttles competition, creates monopolies, maltreats labor, and kills small enterprises. Their attitude toward big business represents more than a natural dislike for bigness in business. It also shows their shrewdness in using the propaganda weapon to destroy our system.

If they should succeed in getting public opinion on their side, it soon would be reflected in legislation which would destroy this segment of our economy, and eventually turn our entire economy into state socialism.

"Grown Up" Business
Big business is nothing but small business grown up. They grew up because the public allowed them to do so. No business can become big business without public approval. Public approval cannot be bought. It is earned through the hard-work process of competing against scores of other companies and giving John Q. Public a better washing machine, dress, or automobile for his money. As demand for a product grows, facilities must be increased to meet that demand. A business grows as the public, with its buying, dictates.

Good Dividends
As business grows, it becomes more efficient and makes possible real savings to the public. Our $1,500 mass produced automobile would cost $50,000 if built with the tools of 1900. Mass production, production and distribution result in economies impossible to small business. Larger investment provides also the necessary extensive research demanded by keen competition.

This huge investment pays dividends to workers, too. Labor-saving tools multiply the productive capacity of the worker and ease the load from his back. This greater production allows him higher pay and shorter hours and puts him in a class far above workers of any other nation.

Bad for Whom?
Small business has fared well in this progress story. You see, big business has created thousands of enterprises that owe their existence to its production. Without the huge output provided by the automotive industry, the average city would be without its many accessory stores, radiator shops, repair shops, filling stations, parking lots, and garages. Far from being exterminated, small business continues to develop.

Big business has made a striking contribution to our nation's prosperity and progress. As long as it is operated by human beings, there will be occasional lapses for justifiable criticism. However, minor criticisms must not be allowed to destroy the true importance of big business in a growing nation. It is essential in a continued dynamic of money. The public, having created big business, will further prosper by its continuance.

Author of
"HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

DO YOU COPY someone else in your work? If you do, you will meet with only the success of a copyist, although you may be copying subconsciously. Nothing pays off like originality. Don't take this to mean wild-cat schemes, crazy ideas with an attempt to be different, but worthwhile, helpful sound measures or ideas that have not been used before.

Hy Landerer, of the Brandt Theatres, New York City, tells a story of being surprised by his supervisor one day with, "Mr. Landerer, starting next week you will be permanent master of ceremonies at this theater." He says if he had been hit over the head with a bat he couldn't have been more stunned. Wild thoughts raced through his head as he visualized himself standing on a stage introducing celebrities to two thousand people in an audience.

In a panicky frame of mind, he asked himself what to do. Should he imitate his predecessor in telling jokes and passing wisecracks to his audience? Yes, that was it. That was the answer. So he went out and purchased a joke book. He studied it and then asked himself how he was going to deliver the jokes.

Honesty forced him to admit that telling jokes was not a natural talent with him; that truly good performers knew how to fit their jokes to the occasion; that a joke had to be spontaneous or it would appear mechanical, and would not be in the least funny.

So his problem was still to be solved!

Every morning he practiced on himself, and every evening after the theater had closed. He recited poetry to himself, read the Gettysburg Address, tried to master the art of speaking before a microphone. But there was still the problem of what to say before an audience.

Then one day he ran into an old friend, a master hand, that well known comedian, Milton Berle, who said, "Hy, there are not two people who can tell a joke the same way and get the same result. Just remember that in your position, your patrons are coming to see the artists you introduce. So go on the stage, tell some interesting fact about the performer, announce his name clearly, and get off. Never attempt to imitate anybody; be yourself."

"That evening," says Hy, "I did just that, and I have met with success far greater than I had anticipated. Throughout the years I have carried that advice with me, and it has stood me in good stead always."

Yes, be natural; be yourself; don't copy.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

LOBBYING in this 81st congress has reached a new high, or a new low, depending upon your viewpoint. In numbers registered, amount spent and tactics employed to influence legislation.

According to a compilation of expenses or have spent or have at least lobbyists have spent or have at least reported expenditures of $1,182,222 from 264 groups, according to Congressional Quarterly, a non-partisan and accurate reporting service. This is an all-time record.

As a result, the house has passed a bill calling for a joint committee of congress to probe the lobbyists. The measure is pending in the senate and likely will pass. Objective is twofold, according to observers here—to obtain information on how to strengthen the rather loosely-drawn lobbying law, passed in 1946, and to learn whether or not the lobbyists are violating the law.

Many new gimmicks are being used to call the attention of congress to the lobbyist. For instance, the National Tax Equality Association is circulating phony dollar bills called a "tax-free buck" to call attention of congress to the tax exemption features of farm cooperatives. The Property Owners' association used cartoons to fight the rent control law. Merchant Marine veterans seeking draft exemption for seamen sent printed paper bags urging congress not to leave them "holding the bag." Even the American Library association used a Graham Hunter cartoon reprinted from the "Southern Agriculturist," urging federal funds to buy more bookshelves.

There was a lobby investigation in 1941 led by Sen. Joseph G. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, chairman of the temporary national economic committee which drafted recommendations, some of which were incorporated in the anti-lobby law. The last probe of lobbying was made by Sen. Hugo Black of Alabama, now Supreme Court Justice. In 1933 to 1934 Senator Black's committee was appropriated $20,000 for its probe during consideration of the Public Utility Holding Company act of 1935. The investigation revealed that more than $1,500,000 was spent on a campaign to defeat the act.

According to information here, the department of commerce, under Secretary Charles Sawyer, is going to bat for the small business man and will go to bat for him before the senate committee hearing evidence on price spreads of farm produce.

The department is conducting a series of surveys, including freight shipments—one involving shippers of paper to small town newspapers. According to results of some of these surveys, the farmer and the small town business man have the same idea about what is in store in the immediate future. Both are cautious. The farmer is buying only what he has to buy and the businessman is stocking only what he has to stock to keep up with his trade, both expecting price drops. Where the farmer gets squeezed, however, according to the survey, is that price of farm produce is dropping faster than prices of things he buys.

Probably the best indication of the trend is that prices of farm land are falling. There is little land moving, but the general consensus is that when the leveling-off period comes, conditions in the rural areas and home towns will be generally healthier, economically.

As this is written, the economy drive started by Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio with some Democratic support headed by Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia has been stalled. After succeeding in recommending several appropriation measures for a horizontal five per cent cut, the senate reversed itself and brought the bill back by a close vote. So to date, there is an increase in appropriation measures in the senate over the amounts which came from the house. Some Democrats, according to observers here, feel that too drastic economy might cause more political reverberations in 1949 than over-spending or the tight budget as it is now set up. Rather than slash domestic expenditures, the cuts may come in the authorized expenditures for RCA and other authorized appropriations for foreign expenditures.

Then, these observers say, at this time there is a psychological aspect to the national economy which must be seriously considered. They contend that any drastic slash in governmental expenditures on the domestic front at this time, might start out all along the line and really touch off a depression. For instance, the dropping off of 8,000 employees in the Veterans' administration, coming just when it did, observers say, had a bad psychological effect upon unemployment generally.

BIG HOLLER FROM THE LITTLE MAN

THE BIG CORPORATIONS

THE FOLLOWING figures and text from the General Motors corporation annual report for the year ending December 31, 1948, should be read and digested by some of those who believe the industries are made up principally of evil men who rob the poor and starve the laborer.

WHAT GM RECEIVED	TOTAL PER $
From sales of products and other income (net)	$4,714.00 $1.00
WHERE IT WENT
To supplies for materials, supplies, services, etc.	2,368.00 50-1/2%
To employees, for pay, salary, etc.	1,343.00 28 1/2%
To federal, state and local governments for taxes	664.00 14-1/2%
To provide for depreciation and obsolescence of plants and equipment	99.00 2-1/2%
To GM owners (about 144,000 shareholders)	211.00 4-1/2%
Retained for use in the business	229.00 4-9/11%

This is a typical "big corporation" report and would indicate to all but an obtuse radical that most of the industrial robbers whom we hear so much about exist principally in campaign speeches and in the writings and verbalities of the ignorant and of those who thrive on the destruction of the construction of better men.

The following is also illuminative:
34% of the stockholders own 1 to 10 shares
14% own 11 to 25 shares
19% own 26 to 50 shares
11% own 51 to 100 shares
8% own 101 shares and over.

So, as 434,000 stockholders receive four and a half per cent of every dollar earned, and as 280,223 employees receive 28 1/2 per cent of every dollar earned—besides the various benefits which these big companies provide for their employees—one realizes that it is not such a steal after all, and that the present advocacy of lowering corporation taxes to 15% is a demand that the stockholder will become discouraged and quit, making almost as much again as it would be to pay the same salary against the employee.

Successful Parenthood

BY
MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS
Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

THOSE TERRIFIC spurts of energy which some children get toward the end of the day are more apt to be signs of excessive fatigue than of boundless verve. During the day there has been too much of something—of activity or excitement or, in an older child, of anxiety.

So wound up does he become that the idea of rest is repugnant—he couldn't relax if he tried. So the tense muscles, the taut brain explode into nervous energy which can only be used up in furious play, or in a temper tantrum if play is curtailed.

Recently, I watched a little girl put on the wildest of dervish dances at bedtime. She was a bundle of gaiety and charm, and so unconsciously funny that the adults who were visiting were enchanted. But the child was so keyed up that it was several hours after she was put to bed before her little body really relaxed.

Now it wasn't the bedtime dance in itself that caused this tension. Earlier in the day she had been allowed to stay in a swimming pool too long—she came out with white lips, and lustrous eyes.

That should have been the cue for staging the rest of the day in a quiet, restful atmosphere in which the child could have drifted off to a long night's sleep. Instead, after a short nap, she was dressed up for company, and the show was on.

It isn't possible, nor do we think it desirable, to keep a child's day always on an even keel. It is part of childhood to become over-excited, to be prone to wonder over a new discovery, and almost choked with suspense waiting for a promised surprise. But what parents should do is to try to keep a balance. If a day has been placid or dull, a good romp with father at bedtime may postpone sleep, but it may also generate joy and the sense of looking forward to tomorrow which should be every child's birthright. But if the day has been loaded with excitement, begin several hours before bedtime to undercut the child's nervous energy by finding calmer and calmer outlets for it.

Because a quiet outlet for energy, such as reading or listening to a story or working with paper cut outs, dissipates the energy slowly but surely. While a wild outlet seems to generate more nervous energy instead of diminishing the supply.

Children rarely know when they are tired. The good parent learns the signs, and they may be different for each child. The next step is to learn how to beguile your child to rest. For enforced rest becomes a punishment in the child's eyes, but an alluring time of quiet will establish habits of seeking rest when tired, instead of more stimulation, which may make the difference between health and nervous instability all his life.

By REV. ROBERT H. HARPER
Jesus Sentenced to Death.
Lesson for June 5: John 19:1-6.
Memory Selection: 1 Peter 2: 11, 23.

A single sentence tells how Jesus was prepared to hear his sentence. He was scourged. Then he was crowned with thorns, buffeted by the soldiers, and mocked as a king. After such treatment, Pilate declared he found no fault in Jesus.

His accusers then shouted that by their law Jesus ought to die. Pilate questioned Jesus and, at first, received no answer. Then, in answer to Pilate's threats, Jesus replied that the governor could have no power at all over him except it be given him from above. Pilate was troubled at this as perhaps thinking that he was dealing with One who was more than a man.

In his further efforts to release Jesus, he was told by the accusers that they had no king but Caesar, and that, if Pilate set Jesus free, he was not Caesar's friend. Thus did they choose, and thus did Pilate choose, as many have done since, between Caesar and Christ.

Pilate ignobly stands out as a cowardly official. He tried to placate the people and induce them to agree to the release of Jesus. He washed his hands in token of his innocence. But history has never accepted the token. The responsibility of the tragic hour was Pilate's. And he failed miserably because he feared the very people he was appointed to rule, and let the Innocent go to horrible death. As for ourselves, let us rejoice that by the sacrificial death of Jesus we can be saved from sin and be made heirs of everlasting life.

The Mighty "Mite"

A Story of Astronomical Possibilities at Microscopic Expense

The mill, one-tenth of a cent, and comparable to the "widow's mite" of biblical fame, is the basis of the U. S. monetary system. It is not minted and is used mainly to break down tax figures to cushion the impact of burdensome levies on over-burdened tax payers.

BUT . . . one mill will place your sales message into the hands of three Citizen readers through the medium of our increasingly popular classified columns.

A cent will buy but little over the counter, or elsewhere, although for but one you can tell thirty prospects what you would like to buy, have to sell or can do for them. A postal card, costing the same, can reach but one.

These figures are based on our minimum rate, 25c for 25 words or fewer, adequate in most instances, and are authentic.

WEST PARIS

Mrs. Geneva Tuell, Coroner.

DR. R. NELSON HATT

Word was received here Saturday of the death of Dr. Rafe Nelson Hatt, a native of West Paris and at the time of his death head of the Shriners Hospital for crippled children in Honolulu, T. H.

Dr. Hatt was graduated from Colby College in 1914 and from Tufts Medical College in 1918. He enlisted in World War I as an army surgeon, and on his return was appointed superintendent of the Shriners Hospital in Springfield, Mass.

Later he went to Honolulu to become the head of the Shriners Hospital there.

Returning to Springfield at the call for physicians and surgeons for the second World War he re-entered the service, remaining until the close when he returned to take up work for some time in an army hospital. But a strong call for service in the Shriners Hospital at Honolulu was again answered, and leaving his son William in Yale College and his elder daughter Mrs. Elizabeth Box in New York, with his wife and daughter returned to Honolulu. Dr. Hatt held the rank of Major in the army and Colby College conferred a degree on him a few years ago.

His death was unexpected, dying in his sleep. Dr. Hatt's death is a great loss to the world. A skillful surgeon, a Christian gentleman, who endured many privations to procure his education, coming from a home of limited means, but in days of prominence he was always the same gracious helpful man, as in boyhood, and everybody welcomed his home coming.

Survivors are his wife, Dr. Edna Swasey Hatt; two daughters, Mrs. William Box of New York and Constance of Honolulu; a son William; a brother, Clarence Hatt of Lyme, N. H.; a sister, Mrs. Robert Cleaves Jr., Portland; two grandchildren; five nieces and a nephew.

Funeral services were held in Honolulu and the remains were cremated and will be brought to Massachusetts for further services and interment.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Emery passed their 38th wedding anniversary Monday. Although no particular observance of the day was made, friends called and they received many cards and gifts.

Among the gifts were those from the Friendly Class and Eleanor B. Forbes Class of the Universalist Church.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Roy Young and family from Portland and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crockett of Bryant Pond visited them. Their son, Rodney Howard Emery, who teaches in Lawrenceville, N. J., was unable to come home.

Mrs. Maurice Hadley entertained Saturday afternoon in honor of the fourth birthday of her daughter, Carmen Jean. Games were played and refreshments including a birthday cake were served. The guests were Donald and Brenda Farr, Mrs. Elizabeth Farr, Mrs. Myrtle Downing and Bruce, Donna Proctor, Mrs. Everett Chase and Ricky and Rachel, Mrs. Windsor Abbott, Bruce and Cynthia, Barry Millett, Pauline Todd, Mabel Jefferson, Martha Elwell, Mrs. Margery Chase, Roger Hadley, the guest of honor Carmen and the hostess, Mrs. Maurice Hadley.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Mann entertained at a birthday dinner party Sunday at their cottage, Idylwild, Locke Mills. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Titus, South Paris; Mr. and Mrs. Abner Mann, Bryant Pond; Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Dymont, the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Mann. Those in the party having birthdays on nearly the same date were Mr. and Mrs. Abner Mann, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Andrews, Mrs. Leroy Dymont, and the hostess, Mrs. Mann.

Mrs. Albert Jackson was also an invited birthday guest but was a guest at a birthday dinner given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy C. Mayhew, for her and her sister, Mrs. Mildred Rollins of Springfield, Mass.

In Boston, May 14, to Mr. and Mrs. Lesley Lathrop (Esther Burriel), a son, Stephen Howard.

HORACE HEIDT is planning a musical comedy — tentatively scheduled for the fall on Broadway — to feature the youthful talent dis- covered on his NBC radio show...

It will be titled "The Kids Break Through" and should prove solid entertainment be- cause Horace has come up with some mighty talented youngsters... Due to budget diffi- culties, Dinah Shore will be among those absent when roll call is taken on Eddie Cantor's show next season... Mutual is considering Jean Edwards for a musical quiz as an evening alter.

PLATTER CHATTER

Capitol: One of the most exciting albums to come out in the past decade is offered by Capitol in their big 12-inch record album of won- derful Cole Porter numbers... En- titled "A Symphonic Portrait of Cole Porter," the records contain the best of Porter in languorous instrumental arrangements... Numbers include "Night and Day," "Begin the Beguine," "What Is This Thing Called Love," "Anything Goes" and num- bers others... Pick of the latest Capitol single releases: Johnny Mercer's "Candy Kisses" backed by "The Missouri Walking Preacher" and Hal Tenny's "Goodnight Sweet- heart" and "Just Like a Butterfly."

Columbia: Jerry Wald has a rhumba treat in his latest Columbia release... Titled "Rhumbaero," its two parts are on one record and ex- cellently done... That oldie "San" is given a brand new look by Tony Pastor and it's becoming, too... The flipper has a nice change of pace, "When You're in Love."

Victor: "The Huckle-Buck" is sweeping the country and one of the better arrangements of this swingy ditty is Tommy Dorsey's... Revere has another hit, "Again"... Vaughn Monroe keeps turning out one hit after another hit... No sooner does he reach the top with his great "Hiders in the Sky" when he offers a complete change in a beautiful ballad, "Dreamy Old New England" backed by "Gigolette," very reminis- cent of his highly successful "Mullerine."

From D. B. of Chicago: "I remem- ber when a woman wasn't con- sidered a lady unless she had hair long enough to sit on. My sisters and I used to wash each other's manes and then spend all day in the garden drying them. I was the first in our set to have my knee-length locks shorn in an Irene Castle bob. I did it on a dare and couldn't go out for weeks, because I was in disgrace!"

From R. H. Bodgwick to R. O. (Dish) Helwig: "What has become of those ever-so-frequent fist fights after school? Every recess and after- noon there was sure to be a scrap somewhere—shaking fists and the inevitable threat, 'Wait 'til I get you after school tonight!'"

From Mrs. Ella Kristensen of Oran- ge, Neb.: "I remember the time I spent my evenings trying to pick out the cactus thorns from my feet caloused from running barefooted, but conscious of pain from stickers I could not find."

From Mrs. Mary Stewart of Chicago: "I remember when a good neigh- bor, handy with the scissors, would gather the neighbors' boys and trim and cut their hair, without the aid of a bowl. Sometimes he'd get a nasty note from a dissatisfied mother."

From A. A. Schleske of Chicago: "I remember when we could buy a straw hat for just 10 or 15 cents."

My sisters and I used to wash each other's manes and then spend all day in the garden drying them. I was the first in our set to have my knee-length locks shorn in an Irene Castle bob. I did it on a dare and couldn't go out for weeks, because I was in disgrace!"

From R. H. Bodgwick to R. O. (Dish) Helwig: "What has become of those ever-so-frequent fist fights after school? Every recess and after- noon there was sure to be a scrap somewhere—shaking fists and the inevitable threat, 'Wait 'til I get you after school tonight!'"

Diarist Vividly Describes 1852 Cross-Country Journey

Sunday, May 23.
This morning we started from Castellan Rips about 7 o. c. A. M. and arrived at the Rips above at about 10 o. c. A. M. where we had to unload the boat and take another tramp through the woods. This was the severest trial we have had in the way of working our passage as yet. The road was very hilly & as hot as any one might wish for and it made me quite sick with the headache which is very bad as everyone knows who has suffered by it. This is the second time and only the second time the passengers have had to walk around these rapids having always passed over them until this and the former trip. We were told when we left the Steamer that our baggage would all be brought over the rips a distance of two miles in 4 hrs. but it is now six o'clock and it is not all yet here & will not probably be before 9 o. c. this eve when we start on board the Steamer Central America for Virgin Bay where we hope to arrive early in the day tomorrow. We are much perplexed in not hearing at this place any thing of the S. S. Lewis having arrived at San Juan du Sud or of her whereabouts—and doubts begin to spring up in the minds of many whether we leave the Isthmus before June. At about 10 o. c. P. M. our baggage having all arrived our Boat started for Virgin Bay. The day has been spent as usual... some fishing, some playing cards and others' reading and some anxious as to the safety of their baggage. No Religious Services other than a portion of the passengers reading their Bibles & Testaments.

Monday, May 24.
About 2 o. c. last night we were aroused by our boats stopping and upon inquiry we were told we were fast upon a sand bar distance one mile from the Lake where we were compelled to lie until light this morning when our Capt. got up steam again & sent his anchor off in a yawl boat and had it overboard and by this means of warping drew us off and we proceeded on our way to the Lake. Upon entering the lake we found a large native Settlement upon the right bank of the river & the Lake—built upon the sight of an ancient fort—with one piece of ordnance upon an elevation in front of the village looks quite formidable. Here we saw a fine sail boat used for navigating the Lake. This lake is a beautiful Sheet of water, in length some two hundred miles and in width from the Mouth of the River to Virgin Bay some 65 miles. It is well filled with Islands that look very beautiful, the most of them being covered with green foliage. We passed two said to be 500 feet high. The first is called Maderia and the other Omillipic. The last named one and one farther west was formerly volcanic, the S. side of which showed the lava as it run down its side, being barren & of a yellowish brown color, having destroyed the forest as it proceeded towards the Lake nearly to the waters edge being a distance of some miles. We could not see the tops of either of them, they being enveloped in clouds half way down & in fact is only in very clear weather that they are ever seen. They are situated No. West of Virgin Bay some 12 miles to the No. West.

BETHEL RAIDERS TAKE ANDOVER TEAM 10-9

The Bethel Raiders visited Andover Sunday and nosed out the fast nine representing that municipality on the diamond during an afternoon of varied weather phases none of which were ideal for best results in the national sport.

Andy Witter, on the mound for the Raiders, allowed but a single hit during the first seven innings but in the two final stanzas a combination of two errors by teammates, a base on balls and seven hits, one of which was a double, netted the home team eight runs.

With the tying run on third Andy settled down fanning Knox for the final out coincidental with the start of the afternoon's most severe shower.

The spectacular running catch by J. Bodwell of Andy Witter's line drive to short center in the eighth inning was seemingly consummation of the impossible and indisputably the feature play of the game.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

happenings That Affect the Dinner Plate, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual—National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare

In an analysis of present business trends in this country, Nation's Business says, "Peaks attained in 1948 are not likely to be duplicated in 1949, but trade and industry have shaken down to more realistic levels. . . . When allowance is made for the normal seasonal dip in February and March declines in those months are not as extreme as they seemed. . . . It is easy to exaggerate the extent of the decline that has taken place."

What it all adds up to is that the boom has pretty well spent its force, but that nothing which can be called a depression is in view. There has been some decline in employment due, in part, to the elimination of inefficient workers, which is a natural tendency at a time when industry is trying to cut operating costs in order to lower prices. As Nation's Business also says, "A return to aggressive selling is now necessary. Inefficiency in either manufacturing or selling will be penalized heavily." Proof of this is found in the fact that the number of business failures is far greater than it was a year or two ago.

On the consumer side, two important things seem to have happened. Many families which were living beyond current income and were spending war-accumulated savings have been forced to come down to earth. This is reflected in declining sales of luxuries and semi-luxuries—liquor, jewelry, commercial entertainment, certain kinds of home appliances, and so on. Then, the fact that prices have been dropping during recent months has convinced many people that still greater drops are in prospect. So they are postponing purchasing in the hope of getting things cheaper a few months hence.

The automobile supply-demand situation is one of the most interesting. Passenger car output may reach a new high record this year. It is now possible to buy almost any make of new car with little or no delay. Most manufacturers have

JACKSON-SILVER POST AMERICAN LEGION Memorial Day

Locke Mills—In spite of the cold and threatening showers, a large crowd of patriotic citizens joined the veterans and children in observance of Memorial Day in this little community. It is worthy of note that the Boy Scout troop with the leader, Verne Corkum, were 100 per cent in the line of march. Ten of the Girl Scouts, also, marched. Though the youngsters were unable to prepare their usual program, they were on hand in good numbers to help with the services in the cemetery.

Rev Kingsley W. Hawthorne of Bethel officiated with appropriate prayers at the Honor Roll, in the cemetery and again in the church. Retiring Commander Richard Andrews acted as Marshal.

Poppy Chairman Bertha Mason presented the Poppy Poster Contest winners with their prizes as follows: Grade A, 1st, Roland Martin; 2nd, Bess Swan. Grade B, 1st, Doris Brooks; 2d, William Seames; 3d, Edwin Cole. Mrs. Mason thanked the children for making the posters and told them that the two first prize winners had been sent in to the Department and the others used in the Poppy Window display at Rand's Store.

The National Committeeman of the American Legion, Hector Sta-

made price cuts of varying sizes. The day used cars brought more than they cost when new is definitely over. The bottom began slipping out from under the used car market last winter, and the looked for spring upturn didn't materialize. Trade-in values are well down, with many dealers overstocked. That is how a buyers' market returns.

It must be remembered that the American economy is being supported at a high level by government spending. Many believe that the prosperity we are enjoying is artificial. It is based to a considerable degree on the huge arms budget made necessary by the cold war, by the Marshall Plan spending, by Treasury largess all along the line. Few are willing to risk long term forecasts.

President Marion Farrand was given the honor of carrying the Auxiliary's new blue Unit flag. The ladies have waited years for this flag, and they have a right to feel proud of it.

The Judith Grover Tent, D. U. V., of Bryant Pond made a good showing with their beautiful flags.

Thirty-one veterans, old and young, came out to help. The boys who played taps and echo did very well as did the firing squad.

A large number joined in the services at Bryant Pond after dinner, while a few felt obligated "Activated" Shell Premium is the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

Activation makes the difference

Shell splits molecules! Shell scientists take the finest available crude—activate the molecules by splitting them and rearranging the atoms according to Shell's formula for a perfectly balanced gasoline. The result—Shell Premium, the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

YES, many of today's engines have been stepped-up . . . they call for more powerful gasoline! Now Shell gives you the most powerful gasoline your car can use—Shell Premium—it's "activated." No other fuel can top its power in your car! This is made possible by Shell's own, specially produced power components and by Shell's own blending methods!

Actually, Shell splits molecules to get more power for today's more powerful engines. So you get a gasoline that's "activated" 3 ways!

1. Activated for knockless power!
2. Activated for fast "getaway."
3. Activated for full mileage.
